

SAFE CRACKERS GET $50,000 IN JEWELS BELOW "DEADLINE."

Use Acetylene Tanks to Get Into "Strong Boxes" at No. 64 Fulton Street.

Expert burglars working with acetylene tanks in the ten-story diamond and platinum dealers' building at No. 64 Fulton Street got away yesterday with loot that may amount to more than $50,000. It included $2,000 in cash.

Detectives who were called several hours too late have placed the story together from the evidence they found. The building is specially designed to resist burglars, locked doors closing the entrance to each separate floor from the stairway. There is a watchman who comes on duty at 5 P. M. and leaves at 6 in the morning. The building is occupied exclusively by jewelry firms and their safes are said to contain wealth aggregating $1,000,000 or more.

The burglars are believed to have hidden themselves in the building before it was closed on Saturday. It is also believed that they obtained in advance the information that would save them from working on the wrong floor.

They went first to the tenth floor and tackled the stairway door. They removed a wire glass panel, went through and replaced the panel. On this floor they appropriated acetylene tanks from the platinum firm of Bursting & Kruger, also an asbestos mask.

Then they went to the eleventh floor and burned open a big safe in the office of S. Kaplan & Co., diamond gutters, where they got $2,000 in money and a wallet belonging to G. L. Roussman, a diamond broker, who had left it for safe keeping.

It is not yet known what the wallet contained, but Kaplan said Houseman usually had $50,000 or $60,000 worth of diamonds in it.

In another room of the Kaplan plant there is a smaller safe, the newest thing in burglar defiance, a steel bar across the door, a time lock and a fireproof steel inner compartment. The burglars burned off the steel bar and hinges, but could make no progress against the inner steel.

Kaplan said $500,000 worth of diamonds were in the safe, and he believed it was this morning the time lock opened the safe just as if it had never been attacked.

The burglars went back to the tenth floor and burned a safe in the office of Ginsburg, Waltra & Dimenstein. They cut a small hole in the inner compartment, big enough to admit a hand, and they believed it was this morning the time lock opened the safe just as if it had never been attacked.

The firm received a letter from the Custom House Saturday announcing the arrival of a $25,000 shipment of gems. These would have been in the same safe but for the fact that Mr. Ginsburg declined Saturday afternoon to go bathing instead of calling for the shipment.

Robert Woodward, an employee of Alschuler & Weiss, across the hall from the Ginsburg office, went to work at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning on an emergency order for a $2,000 bracelet. He said he heard a noise in the adjoining offices, but paid no attention to it. At 11 o'clock he heard a shout from the street, looked out and saw a man making signals to some one in the building. The police believe the signal was a warning to the burglars and that they went away at that time.

It was learned that the safe in the Kaplan office which defied the best efforts of the burglars had been bought at auction. Kaplan has been told that a new safe will cost $5,000 in the repairs needed on the old one.

"But I'm going to have the old one repaired," he said. "It's some safe."
